

Tanapon Tantisripreecha

Research Activities

Areas of Expertise

Artificial Intelligence

Current Interests and Activities

My research interests include the development of algorithms for machine learning problems such as text classification, stock market movement prediction, and image classification problems. I am also interested in an imbalanced dataset problem, where the labels in dataset are skewed data and therefore the solutions may need to be balanced accordingly.

Research work that I have done includes the stock market movement prediction, where the goal is to predict the movement of stock for which the model was created from past data.